• Unfortunate Russian

<I'll stay here. I do not want to get on Lübeck's bad side.>

<She is not suppose to be here either. She cannot do anything to us.>

<Maybe not officially, and maybe not to you, but I have to work with her.>

<I will wait here with Lilhan. If I have anything to do with embarrassing Karl, he will dedicate the rest of his life to embarrassing me.>

<Alright you cowards, We can manage without you.>

<Let's go!>

<What are all those little wedge things on the beach?>

<Just junk, probably fishing net floats.>

<Hurry up, and be quiet!>

<You know, a lot of the girls in the platoon think you are rather handsome, Karl.>

Heh. <Really now...>

<Well, they are just a bunch of kids really.>

<I like being with you because you are a lot more mature.>

<What do you mean by that?>

<Well I- I was not saying that you are old->

Oh?!

<I just ment that you are more grown up, that is... you are not so wild like the others.>

<Maybe we should have went. Karl will keep on embarrassing me, whatever I do.>

<Well... If you go, I will.>

<I wanted to go for a swim anyhow.>

<Lets hurry, or we will miss the fun.>

<What?! So, I am dull?>

<No!>

<I will show you 'wild'!>

<What in Hell did you have in your boot, Eva?!>

<Nothing! The beach is mined! We have just been lucky that no one has stepped on one yet!>

<That did it.>

Soon Everyone is safe on Shore...
<We were just swimming!>
<What are you doing out here?!>
<We have as much right to be here as you.>

<Good job blowing up my clothes, Eva.>

<Let's just get out of here before we get caught!>

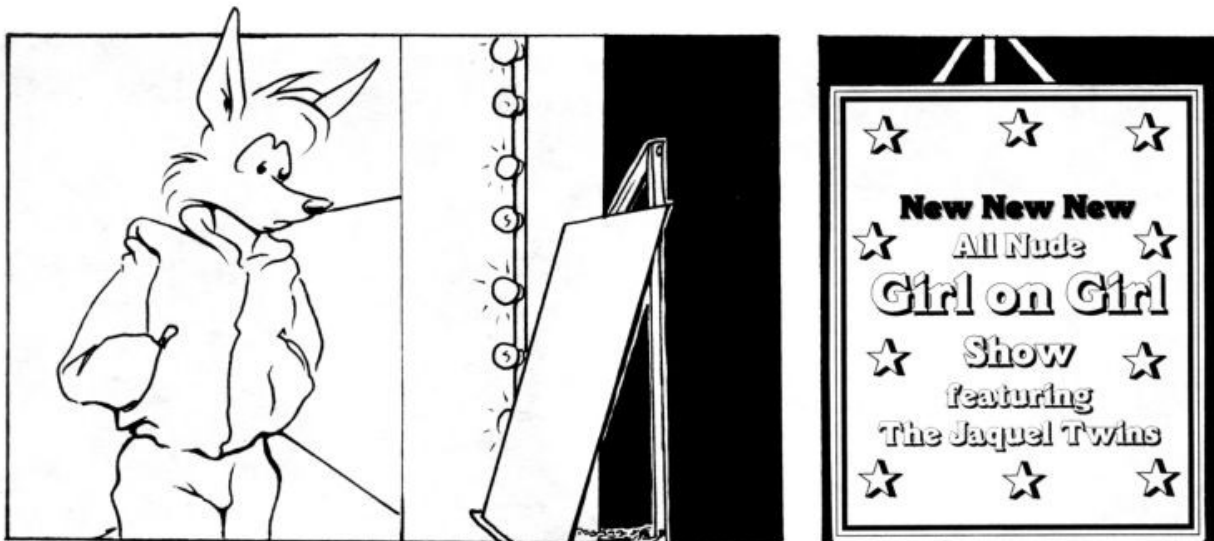

Later...
<Quiet! The Captain may be around.>

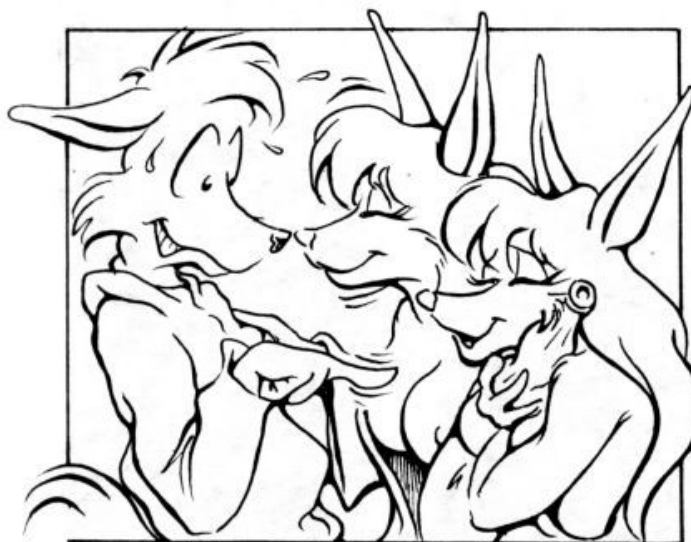

Hmmm...
<This had better be good...>
